

Tashi Deleg!

I am writing to say hello once again, since we first met not so long ago. If impermanence does not intervene, I hope we will have the opportunity to meet once again. In the meantime, I wanted to offer you the opportunity to stay in touch with the work of the Chagdud Gonpa Foundation through our newsletter, Windhorse.

This newsletter is actually a very intimate exchange between myself and my students in the course of our efforts to bring the dharma to the West. It includes dharma teachings, the background of many of our activities and glimpses into the lives and work of some of the dedicated students whose generous efforts make the work of Chagdud Gonpa Foundation possible. The Windhorse serves as part of sangha support, reflecting teachings and models of dharma practice in everyday life. To have exposure to the teachings is a precious occasion and more precious still, the opportunity to practice them. Beyond this, to be able to learn from the model provided by the life and activities of dedicated practitioners can be of tremendous benefit.

If you are searching for community with whom to share your spiritual practice and activities to express your compassionate wishes, you may find this newsletter of interest. If you would like to continue to receive it, you can do so by either becoming a member of Chagdud Gonpa, subscribing to Windhorse, or mailing back the enclosed request card. (please see the enclosed packet for further information.)

Whether or not our paths cross again, my wish for you is the fulfillment of your greatest potential, the revelation of your mind's true nature.

With Best Wishes,

Chagdud Tulku Rinpoche
